OVERVIEW

With reimbursements rapidly declining and added costs from government to advance technologies in the medical field, doctors struggle to remain competitive and stay in business. With new medical software (P.M or E.M.R or R.I.S or others) to make medical offices more efficient and paperless, new hardware are brought in to make this possible. For most of the medical offices to add cost to hire an IT expert full time to maintain the medical databases and hardware is not cost effective.

Sevo helps client achieve their business objectives by lowering the cost and maximizing the performance of their IT systems. Sevo's broad geographic reach in Southern California meet the IT planning, design, procurement, implementation, maintenance, and management requirements of both single- and multi-location businesses.
